Penalties.

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

From time to time thefts of jewellery and other valuables take place in the Colony and in many cases the police have been unsuccessful in tracing the stolen property. It is reasonable to assume that a proportion of this stolen property finds its way into the hands of "brokers", the definition of which, under the Principal Ordinance, includes brokers, money changers, goldsmiths and silversmiths. The object of the Bill is to tighten up the provisions of the Ordinance, and so assist the police in remedying the existing state of affairs.
