THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 47 OF 1984

Parties:

Tailors and Textiles Workers Union and

Tents and Canvas Goods Manufacturers Group of F.K.E.

Issue in dispute:

Retirement benefit for employees.

THE Tailors and Textiles Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Tents and Canvas Goods Manufacturers Group of F.K.E. shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi, on 15th January, 1985, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 1st March, 1984, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 15th March, 1984, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents comprise of the following three companies, who jointly negotiate one collective agreement with the claimants:

(a) Kenya Tents Limited.

(b) Bonar (E.A.) Limited.

(c) Kenya Canvas Limited.

The dispute arose when the parties embarked on the current negotiations to revise their previous collective agreement effective from 1st June, 1981, to 30th May, 1983. The current collective agreement is due to expire on 30th May, 1985.

The respondents are about 230 unionizable employees as follows:

Bonar (E.A.) Ltd., 190 workers; Kenya Canvas Ltd., 10 workers and Kenya Tent Ltd., 30 workers. Out of 230 employees, 197 employees are claimants' members.

The claimants at their last meeting with the respondents wanted to introduce a new clause "Retirement Benefit" in the collective agreement which is the subject matter of the dispute. They felt that provisions in clauses 17 and 19, respectively, do not adequately compensate workers during their retirement. They further argued that after the government's decision not to convert the N.S.S.F. into pension scheme (at the behest of the workers) the worker is left with no assured retirement benefit to enable him to settle happily after regular employment. They considered retirement benefit would induce their members to remain longer in one employment with the hope that after long and loyal service they would eventually be rewarded. As a result of this argument the claimants demanded that 22 days' pay be paid for every completed year of service in addition to gratuity payment by way of retirement benefit.

The respondents in turn argued that the claimants' demand for the introduction of a new clause cannot be entertained as it is already covered under clauses 17 and 19 on redundancy and gratuity, respectively. They explained that the redundancy clause offers 16 days' pay for every completed year of service while the gratuity clause takes care of the period prior to the introduction of the National Social Security Fund contributions. They pointed out that the gratuity clause in several past agreements resulted from court award in cause No. 32 of 1968, and felt that their request for additional benefits was more or less appealing against the award. To introduce a pension scheme where there was none would be a very expensive exercise which the respondents could not be expected to suddenly meet due to adverse economic conditions in their companies.

The parties at their last negotiation agreed on all items and went ahead and signed the agreement and had it registered without raising the issue of retirement benefits. The question of retirement benefits was merely raised at an early state of their negotiations but was not pursued in the subsequent meetings of their negotiations. Their present demand for a 22 days' pay per year would appear to be an improvement on the existing gratuity clause 17 (c). When it came to the final stage of their negotiations, the claimants elected to drop the issue of increasing the days from 10 to 22 in the clause 19 (a). Clause 19 (d) stipulates clearly that: "This scheme shall cease with implementation of the N.S.S.F.". This would mean that employees joining the company after the introduction of the N.S.S.F. scheme would not enjoy any additional benefit, other than those under the N.S.S.F.

The claimants appear to want a complete revision of the clause 19 on gratuity to incorporate retirement benefit in addition to the current N.S.S.F. scheme. This was vigorously resisted by the respondents considering their present and past unhealthy financial situation. Further, the claimants suggested to backdate their demand to 1960 is not practical as it would put an additional financial burden where no provision has been made to cater for such an eventuality.

The claimants stated that the retirement benefit was one of the new clauses they wanted introduced in the current terms and conditions of service of their members because the current benefit under clauses 17 and 19 are inadequate and argued that employees in other companies have retirement benefit alongside gratuity schemes. They felt that a redundant employee stood to benefit more than the one retired under the present plan. As stated earlier they wanted the gratuity scheme to run alongside the retirement benefits and in addition to N.S.S.F.

The demand as it stands is one which requires the respondents to make available a large sum of money to cover past services which were never planned for earlier. To introduce it at this stage with the prevailing economic difficulties in the country would certainly squeeze the respondents out of business considering their sizes and the competition they face.

However, long services award alone paid by one of the respondents (Bonar (E.A.) Ltd.) is far from adequate. The workers would on retirement solely depend on the N.S.S.F. contribution especially those working for the other two respondents who do not operate a long service award scheme.

The court has carefully considered the arguments put forward by the claimants and it appears that the demand is not a reasonable one especially for small companies such as the respondents. The crucial point in the claimants' demand is: can the respondents sustain the extra financial burden? The answer to this called for a study of the respondents' balance sheets in the light of the prevailing economic situation in the country. The court is satisfied from the supplementary report of D.M.P.D. that the respondents cannot sustain any additional heavy financial burden. The court, however, has noted that the claimants made a number of other proposals on this subject which, however, were not fully discussed by the parties.

The court, under the circumstances, rules that this matter be considered again during the next negotiations in an attempt to explore various possible alternatives.

In the meantime the demand stands rejected.

Given in Nairobi on the 22nd February, 1985.

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.
