21. Where a person to whom a direction (including any summons) is addressed had no opportunity of objecting to the making of such direction, he may apply to the Tribunal to vary it or set it aside, but the Tribunal shall not do so without first notifying the person who had requested for the directions and considering any representations made by such party.

(3) Where the decision is made in the absence of any party, the Secretary shall notify the absent party of such decision.

Interim orders.

30. (1) The Tribunal may make an order on an interim basis—

- (a) suspending, in whole or part, the effect of any decision which is the subject matter of an appeal or any other proceedings before it; or
- (b) granting any remedy which the Tribunal would have the power to grant in its final decision.

(9) The Tribunal may, for the purposes of this rule, join any party to the proceedings.

(10) Subject to paragraph (9), an order or direction for interim relief may be made against a person who is not a party to the proceedings, provided that no such order may be made unless that person has been given an opportunity to be heard.

(11) Where the urgency of the case so requires, the Tribunal may dispense with a written request for interim relief or grant the request for interim relief before the response of the other parties have been submitted.
