ANNEX 1
GRANT NO. NDF C79

RWANDA: Developing Capacity for Climate Resilient Road Transport Infrastructure under the Upgrading of Base-Gicumbi-Rukomo-Nyagatare Road, Phase I: Base-Rukomo.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

Project Objectives

The Goal of the proposed component will be to contribute to increasing Rwanda's resilience to the impacts of climate change while improving the standard of living for its citizens. It will do so by seeking to increase the capacity of road transport stakeholders in Rwanda to integrate consideration of climate change and disasters into the transport life cycle, in particular for roads and bridges.

Rwanda will experience increased temperatures and changing rainfall patterns as a result of climate change. In the transport sector, both existing and future infrastructure is susceptible to damage. Increased temperature can increase pavement buckling and changing rainfall patterns can increase landslides, potholes and materials losses to the structures and cause road and bridge failures. Rwanda's vulnerability to climate change is a cumulative result of multiple influences, most notably its highly mountainous topography, an ecosystem particularly vulnerable to climate change. In addition, torrential rains and floods, particularly in the Northern region, have contributed to erosion and the degradation of forests has damaged soil structure.

To address these problems this component will provide technical assistance to build the knowledge and develop technical and policy tools for the transport sector to integrate climate change as well as other natural disasters into all aspects of the transport life cycle. Opportunities will also be provided to pilot innovative approaches to reduce damages and prevent them from occurring. In addition, increased capacity by the transport sector to contribute to response and recovery efforts when disasters do occur will also improve risk management efforts in the country. Cross-cutting approaches to the component include: environment and social co-benefits and developing human resources through multiple channels. These approaches should ensure the sustainability and scaling-up of the results of the technical assistance.

Project Activities and Expected Results

The AfDB project will upgrade the 125 km Base-Gicumbi-Rukomo-Nyagatare road section, which is a major route for trade between the northern and eastern provinces of Rwanda. The project has four major components: a) road works; b) social improvements (school and educational facilities, multifunctional centres for women); c) capacity-building, project management; and d) resettlement compensation. The NDF-financed component is anchored in component c) and will consist of long-term technical assistance and pilot civil works.

The specific objectives for the AfDB project are: i) to improve the level of transport service on the upgraded section and the local population's living conditions; and ii) build the road maintenance planning and programming capacities of the road administration. The NDF component will increase the capacity of road transport stakeholders in Rwanda to integrate consideration of climate change and disasters into the transport life-cycle, in particular for roads and bridges.

NDF's Components

The NDF component will have three subcomponents (details found in the logical framework in annex 1):

- 1) Strengthening the knowledge base and tools development (outputs 1.1-1.6)

Undertake detailed technical assessment and recommendations for improved road and bridge planning (i.e. road alignment), design, maintenance, repair and recovery in Western Province. Detailed country-wide GIS vulnerability mapping for the transport sector; targeted technical training on climate change and disasters in the transport sector; programme for engineering student internships and excellence awards established. Undertake review of technical guidelines and practices throughout the transport life cycle. Implementation of climate risk awareness-raising programme with local populations and labour-based maintenance crews.

- 2) Physical works put in place to enhance landslide protection in right-of-way areas prone to landslides and erosion while providing benefits to local populations (outputs 2.1-2.4)

Evaluation and identification of best practices for right-of-way erosion control measures. Pilot projects for improved environmental management along the Base-Rukomo corridor within the scope of the transport sector. Strengthened performance indicators included, implemented and monitored by RTDA for supervision consultants and construction companies' rehabilitation of quarries and road-side rehabilitation works. Country-wide small-scale pilot projects for technological engineering innovations in identified "hot-spots."

- 3) Increased involvement by transport sector experts in disaster risk management (outputs 3.1-3.4)

"Build-back-better" guidelines will be developed by RTDA together with the army engineering brigade for reconstruction efforts that are more resilient to climate change, accompanied by training and testing on the ground. Incorporate Disaster Risk Management and Adaptation to Climate Change into revisions of the Transport Sector Policy (2015-2016). Develop a road asset management system, incorporating data on hazards and hot-spots to improve direction of preventative maintenance works and schedules as needed, in order to reduce interruption in mobility for the population and economic activity. Training of staff on how to use and update the system.

The component will furthermore allow for organising two training events with AfDB on transport and adaptation to learn from relevant experiences.

Cost Estimates and Financing Plan

The total budget for the AfDB Transport Sector Support Program is EUR 74.13 million with NDF contributing EUR 4.4 million. The Government of Rwanda will provide EUR 4.25 million to the Transport Program out of which EUR 280,000 will be co-financing to the NDF component.

The following two tables provide an overview of the financing to the programme plus a summary of the detailed NDF budget by cost category:

Table 1: Overview of financing

Financing	AfDB	NDF	GoR	Total
EURO	65.48	4.4	4.25	74.13
Per cent	88.3%	6%	5.7%	100%

Table 2: Summary budget

No.	Category	Budget EUR
1.	International long-term TA (34 months)	1,268,000
2.	Short-term TA, training and technical studies	877,000
3.	Equipment	145,000
4.	Pilot projects	1,650,000
5.	Dissemination and outreach	100,000
6.	Evaluation	60,000
7.	Contingencies	300,000
8.	Total	4,400,000

Cost category 2 includes vulnerability mapping, revision of norms and standards, data collection, technical studies and detailed design for investments, monitoring plus short-term technical assistance (engineering, geology, hydrology, asset management, gender, etc.). Training includes national staff, municipal staff and private sector. Equipment includes GIS, mapping software, computers, GPS, and digital cameras. Pilot projects cover works (construction materials, slope protection, flood and drought management, climate monitoring). Cost category 5 will allow special exchanges, dissemination, and capacity building activities with the AfDB. The project will also have an external evaluation at project completion.

IMPLEMENTATION AND MONITORING

Implementation Arrangements

The project duration is four years in the period 2016-2020. The NDF component will be anchored in the Single Project Implementation Unit in the Rwanda Transport Development Agency (RTDA). NDF will sign a grant agreement with the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning (MINECOFIN). The NDF project will be managed under a consultancy contract containing long- and short-term technical assistance.

A Steering Committee will be established and will be represented by senior management from the RTDA, AfDB, REMA, MIDIMAR and NDF. Additional experts, for example, from the Provincial or District governments, may also be invited as needed. The meetings will take place over the course of the component implementation, and a minimum of once yearly. The mandate of the Steering Committee will include the review and approval of the inception, mid-term and final reports, review progress and approve changes to the component design based on evolving needs, and approve budget reallocations if necessary.

Monitoring and Evaluation

The component consultancy team together with the SPIU will be responsible for monitoring progress on both implementation and results of the component. Monitoring of output and outcome-based indicators will take place at regular intervals and compared against an agreed baseline. A baseline study will take place in the inception phase of the component. RTDA, assisted by the TA-team and in close coordination with the other institutions, will be responsible for establishing the baseline, collecting data for each indicator, and reporting. A draft results-based monitoring framework is in place for the NDF component (see annex 3). Progress against the indicators will be identified and reported in the Mid-Term and Final Reports and discussed during Steering Committee Meetings. A final evaluation will take place at project completion to measure impact and gather lessons learned.

In addition, the component design also identifies indicators listed in a number of the country's overarching development strategies and towards which the proposed component will also contribute. This design demonstrates a high level of relevance to the country's broader development objectives, and increases the likelihood of the sustainability of the consultancy activities and results.

Monitoring Framework

SEE ANNEX 3

ANNEX 2

PROJECT EXECUTION

Procurement

Procurement will follow NDF General Procurement Guidelines for Grant Projects and be undertaken by RTDA with oversight and no objections to each step in the process provided by NDF. Draft TOR will be shared with AfDB for comments. Quality and cost-based selection (QCBS) from an international shortlist of firms will be used to select the consultant/consortium that will be responsible for providing technical assistance, training and inputs through studies and tools development in collaboration with RTDA and relevant institutions. It is proposed to have one contract for all TA (short- and long term including all studies) to be provided by an association or consortium of international and national companies. In addition, there will be one to two contracts for equipment, and two or three works contracts procured through National Competitive Bidding.

Disbursements

All contracts will have direct NDF payments and there will be no special accounts for the NDF-supported components. Disbursements will take place according to the procedures laid out in the NDF Disbursement Instructions.
