Purpose and aim of statutory measure and its relation to objectives of the Act

2. The purpose and aim of this statutory measure is to provide financial support for sorghum information, transformation and research functions, which have been identified by the sorghum industry as essential, in the interests of the industry as a whole.

This measure advances all the objectives as set out in section 2(2) of the Act:

Section 2(2)(a): Increasing market access for all market participants

Research and Information are generic functions that are the basic prerequisites for an orderly industry. Transformation projects are principally aimed at the empowerment of black people in terms of:

- (i) the cultivation of sorghum cultivars that are acceptable to the commercial sorghum industry; and
- (ii) the transfer of farming technology and relevant information.

The supply of continuous generic market information to market participants is essential in identifying possible opportunities and threats in the market place. It can also be used as an instrument for pricing decisions, business expansion, capital investment, product development and market access within the sorghum industry.

Section 2(2)(b): Promoting efficiency of marketing of agricultural products

In the free market environment, reliable industry information supplied by an independent and objective organisation (SAGIS) is critical for a silo owner, producer, trader, processor, researcher, seed grower and Government. It also provides the necessary tool for strategic planning by the sorghum industry.

The sorghum industry supports the principle that generic market information be obtained by means of statutory measures in terms of the Act and that SAGIS should be the official vehicle to achieve this. SAGIS also operates as the official information service provider for the maize, wheat and oilseeds industries. A statutory levy is required to ensure that the sorghum industry shares in the gathering and dissemination of market information.

Proper and accurate market information that is continuously and timeously available, will not only increase market access for all participants, but will also promote efficiency in the marketing of sorghum and sorghum products. Furthermore, proper market information will enhance the viability of the sorghum industry and the agricultural sector at large. Market information will also enhance food security, as the market can only function properly if the national stock levels are known.

Research projects are mainly of an agronomical nature, which include the improvement of sorghum quality. Local malting and milling qualities of sorghum are unique and cultivars are developed to comply with the required specifications.

Notwithstanding limited high-potential arable land and unfavourable agricultural conditions, the sorghum industry has achieved high agronomical and grain quality standards, due to the continued funding of research projects. The complex interaction between changing crop patterns and external factors that affect them, such as diseases and pests, often impact negatively on production and quality. This creates an urgent demand for new technology in order to keep the sorghum industry profitable and viable.

Research is therefore important for the maintenance of an internationally competitive industry, and to supply products that are of an acceptable standard according to the preferences of processors and consumers.

Specific research infrastructures have been created over time and it is essential that these infrastructures be retained and maintained to the benefit of the sorghum industry.

Section 2(2)(c): Optimisation of export earnings from agricultural products

Limited volumes of sorghum are exported to the neighbouring countries of South Africa, particularly to Botswana, which is dependent on South Africa for approximately 30% of its annual sorghum requirements, more or less 40 000 tons per annum. For the optimisation of export earnings it is essential that South African products conform to international quality standards. Researchers and breeders must ensure that locally produced sorghum is acceptable and competitive in the international market.

Section 2(2)(d): Enhancement of the viability of the agricultural sector

The sorghum industry's viability is primarily based on research and information and has an impact on labour. The continuation of levies will ensure that the various role-players of the sorghum industry can continue to more effectively pursue their economic objectives. A portion of the funds collected by means of the levy on sorghum will be focused on small-scale farmers and the transformation of previously disadvantaged groups within the sorghum industry.

Administration of statutory measure

3. The statutory measure shall be administered by the Sorghum Trust. The levies collected in terms of the measure shall be administered by the Sorghum Trust as a separate account. Any deficit at the date of termination of this statutory measure shall be for the account of the Sorghum Trust.
